

Activate your leadership – and invigorate your workforce.

Studies show that managers are the key links to embedding wellness in the culture of any organization.

Managers on the Move is an action-packed workshop that will teach – and inspire – your managers to become agents of health and well-being. In just one day, they'll become more productive and engaged – and they'll bring the message to their teams, creating a massive multiplier effect throughout your company.

THE RESULTS:

61% of participants reported increased productivity

50% of participants reported higher engagement

84% of participants reported stronger influence with team members
